28-year-old Man Repeatedly Warned about the Dangers of Speeding Convicted of Second-Degree Murder
*Defendant was driving his Camaro nearly 100 mph when he hit a 33-year-old woman turning left;
victim died from her injuries a month later*

SANTA ANA, Calif. – A 28-year-old man who had been repeatedly warned of the dangers of speeding was convicted today of second-degree murder for hitting and killing a 33-year-old woman while driving his Camaro nearly 100 mph.

Afiff Kevin Doaifi, 28, of Mission Viejo was immediately taken into custody after being convicted. Doaifi had been out of custody after posting a $1 million bond on September 27, 2018.

Doaifi faces a maximum sentence of 15 years to life in state prison. He is scheduled to be sentenced on December 13, 2022 at the Central Justice Center in Department C 45.

Just before midnight on Saturday, March 25, 2017, Doaifi was driving his Camaro eastbound on Alicia Parkway in Mission Viejo when witnesses watched him gun his engine from Murilands as he travelled up the hill of Alicia Parkway to make it through the intersection before the light turned red.

Thirty-three-year old Judith Noval, of Mission Viejo, was turning left onto Althea Avenue from westbound on Alicia Parkway in her Hyundai Elantra when Doaifi's speeding Camaro hit her. The event-data recorder in the Doaifi's Camaro recorded he was driving 99 mph just 2 ½ seconds before he collided with Noval's Hyundai.

Following the collision, Doaifi was recorded on a 911 dispatch call complaining about the damage to his Camaro. According to witnesses he never asked about the well-being of the woman he hit.

Noval passed away as a result of her injuries a month following the collision.

Doaifi was cited for speeding on five different occasions, including for driving 109 mph on a freeway in October 2014. In a court trial for driving 109 mph, Doaifi told the judge "I was wrong and it was dangerous" and "this is a wakeup call."

“This individual showed over and over again he has complete disregard for human life,” said Orange County District Attorney Todd Spitzer. “He didn’t care how many speeding tickets he racked up, he kept speeding. He wasn’t going to stop until he killed someone, and he finally did when he killed Judith. And even after he crashed into her car and left an innocent young woman fighting for her life, he didn’t rush to help her or even bother to ask if she was ok. All he cared about was the damage to his car.”

Senior Deputy District Attorney Dan Feldman of the Homicide Unit is prosecuting this case.
