Man Convicted of Stabbing Girlfriend to Death, Killing Their Two Young Sons
The children's bodies were never located despite an extensive search by law enforcement;
today would have been the oldest son's 12th birthday

SANTA ANA, Calif. – A 42-year-old man was convicted today of stabbing one of his girlfriends to death and killing their two young sons in 2012. The children's bodies were never located.

Shazer Fernando Limas, 42, of Orange, was found guilty of three counts of first-degree murder for killing 31-year-old Arlet Hernandez Conteras and 16-month-old Fernando Hernandez Limas and 2-month-old Emanuel Hernandez Limas. The jury also found the special circumstances of multiple murders to be true.

Today's conviction comes on what would have been Fernando's 12th birthday.

He faces a maximum sentence of life without the possibility of parole when he is sentenced on February 3, 2023.

Contreras' body was found dumped in a gutter in Los Angeles County. She had been stabbed 48 times.

On April 12, 2012, Contreras brought the couple's sons to Limas' apartment in Orange. The police were called to the apartment after an argument broke out between the two. Contreras left, but returned later that same day with the boys.

Sometime on April 13 or 14, Limas stabbed Contreras and killed the two young boys. On April 14, he called his new girlfriend to say he had hurt his hands in a fight while out with friends.

Limas let the bodies of Contreras and boys rot in a balcony closet for 10 days while he continued to go to dance clubs, rented limos, and even had friends over to his apartment.

Limas bleached out the blood stains in his carpet and moved furniture in his apartment to cover up the bleach stains.

On April 24, Limas loaded Contreras' body into a large chest and drove a U-Haul rented in someone's name to dump her body in an industrial area in Los Angeles County. Limas then drove the U-Haul an additional 100 miles after dumping Contreras' body. It is believed that Limas disposed of the bodies of 16-month-old Fernando and 2-month-old Emanuel during that time.

Contreras' body was found the next day. The remains of Fernando and Emanuel have yet to be recovered.

Limas broke his lease on his apartment a few days later. Management from the apartment contacted the Orange Police Department after workers reported a suspicious smell, blood spatter on walls and pools of blood under the bleached carpet.

Orange police arrested Limas following a high-speed chase on the 405 and the 5 freeways. Contreras' phone was in his vehicle at the time he was arrested.

"He killed his entire family and threw them away like trash," said Orange County District Attorney Todd Spitzer. "Arlet and little Fernando and Emmanuel did not deserve to have their lives so violently snuffed out by someone who cared only about himself and was willing to kill everyone and anyone who got in his way, including his own sons."

Senior Deputy District Attorney Mena Guirguis of the Homicide Unit is prosecuting this case.
